NSW moves for COVID-safe ID option

PHARMACISTS in NSW will be able to use patients' digital driver's licences as a COVID-safe contactless ID option when dealing with requests for medications such as pseudoephedrine, under legislation before the State's Legislative Assembly.

NSW Minister for Customer Service, Victor Dominello, said the Road Transport Amendment (Digital Licensing) Bill 2020 would give the digital licence the same status as the physical licence (PD 18 Sep).

"Following enactment of the bill, pharmacists selling pseudoephedrine will have the benefit of being able to confirm the identity of their customers without having to touch their licence card," he said.

"The enhanced security of the digital driver licence will provide better assurance to industries, such as pharmacies, in considering issues like fraud when they are dealing with customer transactions and purchases.

"The increased security measures that come with the digital driver licence will better protect privacy and security and also detect criminal behaviour in relation to wrongful usage of driver licences."

Liberal MP, Eleni Petinos, noted "at the time the digital driver's licence was launched we could not have imagined the important benefit that it provides today - a no contact IT check and COVID-safe ID option".

"Pharmacists, second-hand dealers, publicans, security guards, bottle shop retailers and police are required to take and hold a person's licence card in order to check its validity and confirm a person's identity, age or authority to drive," she said.

"On the other hand, the digital driver licence can be easily verified by sight without the need for the checker to touch the mobile device."

Pharmacy Guild of Australia NSW Branch President, David Heffernan, told Pharmacy Daily the move would support pharmacists recording patients' ID as part of Project Stop, noting a number of pharmacists in the state have been involved in a trial.

Transition of care program funded

NORTHERN Sydney Primary Health Network (PHN) has secured Federal Government funding for two hospital discharge follow-up services.

The hospital to home support services delivered by Just Better Care and KinCare, aim to reduce the risk of re-admittance to hospital by helping patients to improve medication adherence and not eating well.

The services have been designed to help patients to settle back into their home life after surgery.

In 2019 the services assisted 338 people, after stints in public and private hospitals in Sydney's northern suburbs.

The services funded by Sydney

North Health Network enable the Just Better Care and KinCare teams to visit clients in their home on return from hospital, supporting them to live the way they want.

The teams are there to remove the burden of daily tasks and specialised care, helping people put all their effort into recovery.

WADA 2021 Prohibited List

THE World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) has released its 2021 List of Prohibited Substances and Methods, which will come into force from 01 Jan 2021.

The list designates what substances and methods will be prohibited both in and out of competition, and which substances will be banned in specific sports.

The 2021 list has been redesigned to include a table of contents providing a non-exhaustive list of examples outlining medical conditions for which substances in different classes may be prescribed.
